INTRODUCING HIS LORDSHIP

The sandwich was named after John Montague, the 4th Earl of Sandwich, (1718 - 1792).

He lived in the English county of Kent and was an inveterate gambler. It's said that he had his servants put his food between two slices of bread so that he could eat with one hand while holding his playing cards with the other.

His gaming colleagues then ordered 'bread like Sandwich' - and so the sandwich was born.

Do you fancy a 'bread like Sandwich'? . . .
